Art Unit: 1774

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-9, drawn to a polypropylene tape fiber, classified in class 428, subclass 372.
- II. Claims 10-18, drawn to a tape fiber having shrinkage rate, classified in class 428, subclass 394.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because:

Inventions group I and group II are related as combination and subcombination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because a group I does not require the shrinkage rate. The subcombination has separate utility such as low shrinkage yarn.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

During a telephone conversation with William Parks on 1/12/03 and 1/21/04 a provisional election was made without traverse to prosecute the invention of group I, claims 1-9. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claims 10-18 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Morin (U.S. 6,541,554) alone or optionally taken with Zhao '211.

Morin teaches polypropylene fibers, which include tapes, which are made by extrusion of a sheet then cutting the sheet into fiber (tapes or slip film fiber yarn). See column 5 line 59 and column 4, line 49.

Morin further teaches the fibers comprise about 100 to 5000pm of nucleating agent at column 4, line 40. Morin still further teaches the nucleating agent (compounds) are DBS, PMDBS and 3, 4- DMDSS and others at column 4 line 31-39. Morin yet still further teaches the fibers can be made into fabric articles such as carpet backing.

Zhao '211 is cited to show the polypropylene articles having nucleating agent as disclosed by Morin inherently have a tensile strength of about 4,931psi.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The enclosed patent discloses the state of the prior art.
